Sheikh Muhammed Al-Arif, a prominent figure of Wahhabism in Saudi Arabia, issued the latest ridiculous Fatwa of Wahhabism one day ago.

It is interesting to know that according to this Fatwa "Presence of a young girl with her father in an unpopulated place is Haraam, since the father might suffer from Paraphilia and get motivated to abuse his daughter!

The notable point is that Al-Arif issued this Fatwa in a discussion with Kuwait Al-Anba newspaper and said: it is mentioned in holy Quran that a girl may be alone with her father, brothers and uncles in a private place, since they are Maharem, but I believe that in conditions of obliquity it is Haraam for a girl to be alone with these people.

This Fatwa that is against the Quranic verse was heavily criticized by many of Sheikhs and Muftis of Wahhabism, the media of Saudi Arabia and Arabic countries.

It is notable that some of political and religious experts in Saudi Arabia consider Muhammad Al-Arif, one of the most controversial Moftis in Arabia, as a person who issues weird Fatwas only for the sake of fame.

It is worth mentioning that last year he took the courage to tease Ayatollah Sayed Ali Sistany, the respected Marja' of world's Shias. However, he went on to apologize after a few days under the pressure of the Saudi government.
